Program of Congress.

A Forecast of the Proceedings of the Week.

IN BOTH SENATE AND HOUSE.

The Debate on the Tariff Bill Will Be the Main Feature in the Senate, and the River and Harbor Bill May Be Taken Up—The House Likely to Be Without a Quorum a Greater Part of the Time—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The senate will continue the consideration of the tariff bill until Friday of this week, when Mr. Frye, the chairman of the commerce committee, has given notice that the river and harbor bill be taken up and disposed of.

The river and harbor bill will not take less than two days' debate and the debate may extend even a week, particularly if the Democratic policy of obstruction is carried out. The consideration of the tariff bill may be interrupted early in the week by the presentation of the conference report on the land grant forfeiture, or the conference report on the original package bill. Either of these may lead to an extended debate, and so the prospects of making much progress with the tariff bill this week are not very good.

It may be that the Republican caucus will get together during the week in view of the slowness of the debate on the bill thus far and agree to put before the senate the proposition for adopting a rule under which the previous question can be called. This is not regarded as probable by those (and they are in the majority) who think the Federal election bill is shelved by agreement until the next session of congress.

The business that may be transacted in the house this week will depend entirely or largely upon the presence and maintenance of a quorum during the week. There are a number of matters waiting and claiming attention of the house, but just which particular matter will receive attention first it is difficult to state, but there is a disposition on the part of a majority to dispose of the conference report on the original package bill, the commerce bill and several contested election cases.

The general deficiency bill and the Indian appropriation bill, with senate amendments, are awaiting the action of the house, and either of these, some other matters not likely to arouse party feeling, are likely to be considered during the week even in the absence of a quorum. The probability is that the original package bill will be acted upon early in the week and that the general deficiency bill, which, when brought before the house, will occupy its time for several days, will be disposed of during the week.

Saturday's Congress Proceedings.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—In the senate Saturday a petition from Ohio was presented favoring an increase in the duty on barley. The credentials of E. D. White as successor to Mr. Eustis, of Louisiana, were presented. A joint resolution was passed to permit Col. H. C. Corbin to accept a civil position on the world's fair commission. Mr. Blair's previous question resolution was referred. The tariff debate was resumed and continued until adjournment.

In the house the senate amendments to the sundry civil appropriation bill were non-concurred in, and the bill sent to conference. At 2 p. m. the house adjourned.

Clerks in the Pension Department.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The house bill providing 523 additional clerks to be employed in the work of preparing for the payment of pensions under the dependent pension act is still hanging up in the senate committee on appropriations because that committee has been very closely engaged on other measures which also require immediate attention. Members of the committee say, however, that there is no doubt that they will be able this week to bring this bill into the senate with a view of putting it on its immediate passage.

WORLD'S FAIR NEWS.

The Bill Passes the Illinois Legislature Which Adjoins Site Die.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 4.—In the house Friday morning the world's fair bill was read a third time and passed by a vote of 132 yeas to 16 nays.

The bill came back from the senate with notice that the eight-hour and submerged lands amendments were non-concurred in. The house refused to recede from these amendments, and a joint conference committee was appointed, to which the matter was referred.

In the afternoon a report from the senate and house joint conference committee was received stating that an agreement had been arranged by which the eight-hour section was stricken from the bill, and an amendment made to the submerged land clause providing that the made land, after the fair, whenever diverted to any other use than that of a public park, shall revert to the state of Illinois.

The conference also agreed to present a joint resolution recommending to the world's fair directory the enforcement of the eight-hour principle, and that no aliens be employed. This resolution was adopted by acclamation. The report of the conference committee was then adopted—124 to 7.

A message from the senate was received, stating that that body had concurred in the report of the conference committee and adopted the joint resolution on the eight-hour and alien labor principle. This concluded the business of the special session of the legislature, and adjournment followed sine die.

HEAVY MAIL STORM.

Great Destruction Done to Property in Minnesota and Elsewhere.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—A New Richmond, Minn. special to The Tribune says: The most terrific wind and hail storm ever experienced here visited this city at 11:30 Sunday forenoon. The winds on the west and north side of every building in the village and for miles on either side in the country are broken. The storm was about four miles wide and about ten miles long. All uncut grain in its path is a total loss. The hail in some instances, as large as hen's eggs, covered the ground for several inches. The loss is estimated at $75,000 to $150,000. Hogs were killed and hundreds of chickens perished. The pieces of ice were driven with such force as to pierce through the roofs of buildings.

A special to The Tribune from Sioux Falls, S. Dak., says: A violent storm, while lasting only seven minutes, caused $30,000 damages. Hail stones measured eight inches in circumference and weighed ten pounds. Just prior to the storm, the wind blew sixty-five miles an hour.

Dispatches from Salem report hail, but no damages. Dell Rapids, on the north, reports no hail. On the south the storm did not extend a mile. On the east the storm was more severe. Luverne, Beaver Creek, Valley Springs, Ellsworth, and Bruce all report hail with slight damage to crops.

Severe Storm in New York.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The village of Cortland, in Cortland county, was visited by a heavy thunder storm yesterday evening. Streets and cellars were flooded and one barn was destroyed. Lightning damaged several business blocks and private residences. A number of persons are suffering from nervous prostration, the effects of the storm.

Three Houses Struck by Lightning.

OLEAN, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The most violent electric storm of the season passed over this town last night. Three dwelling houses in different parts of the town were struck by lightning and totally destroyed. The storm raged for nearly two hours.

QUADRUPLE DROWNING.

Four Rhode Island People Lose Their Lives While Bathing.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 4.—Thomas Galvin, a lad residing on Blackstone street, Worcester, got beyond his depth while bathing at Bullock's Point, yesterday and was drowned. Two sisters await the recovery of the body.

Michael Clossy, of this city, 18 years old, was drowned while bathing at Mark Rock. DeGlan was drowned in Scott's pond, Central falls, and Thomas Kelly was drowned in Mashapang pond, this city, yesterday.

Two Fires at One Time.

DANVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—At about 2 o'clock Sunday morning an alarm of fire was sounded, and the whole of the Danville department turned out. The fire was in an occupied building on State street, which was consumed. While there the department received word that the Whiteman paper mills were on fire. The large two-story building belonging to the company was burned to the ground. Loss, $150,000; insurance $13,000. It is believed both fires were of incendiary origin.

Dr. Burtzell's Successor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Father Peter J. Prendergast virtually assumed the pastorate of the Church of the Epiphany Sunday morning over which Dr. Burtzell has been pastor many years. Father Prendergast was in attendance at all the masses and only celebrated high mass at 10:30. He did not preach any sermon but simply spoke a few words to the congregation. The parishioners are raising a $5,000 fund which will be presented to him on the 10th inst.

Took His Last Jump.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Yesterday afternoon Charles McCaffrey, the Canadian bridge jumper, jumped from the shores at the Atlantic works at East Boston into the water, a distance of 135 feet. He had been giving exhibitions in this city, and said that this was his last jump before going to New York to jump from the Brooklyn bridge.

Suspicion of Murder.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 4.—Mary, the 7-year-old daughter of William Mannahan, was drowned in the river yesterday afternoon. Suspicion of murder is entertained by City Marshal Tarbox, who stated that Mannahan's arrest last night to await the coroner's inquest. Witnesses testify that Mannahan threw the child into the river.

A Rice Famine.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The British steamship Glencliff arrived here yesterday from Yokohama, and Amoy, China, with the first consignment of Japan tea from this year's crop. The captain reports the suffering from the recent rice famine to be upon the increase. The government has come to the assistance of the people, however, and is importing large cargoes of rice from Siam, Cochin, China and Burmah.

A Dust Blizzard.

ABERDEEN, S. D., Aug. 4.—A dust blizzard struck here at 6 o'clock Saturday night and lasted five or ten minutes. When the wind subsided the mercury stood at 103 degrees. All crops are seriously damaged by heat and drought.

Into a Land Slide.

OAKDALE, Ky., Aug. 4.—A Cincinnati Southern train ran into a land slide near this place Sunday, and the engine and three cars were thrown down an embankment into Emery river. Engineer Sam Moore and Fireman Charles Lannan were killed.

European Affairs.

All Eyes Now Watching Russia and Germany.

TWO VERY IMPORTANT EVENTS.

The Maneuvering of the Russian Army and the Visit of Emperor William to the Czar—Two Rumors, One of War and the Other of Peace—Other Foreign Dispatches.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The time approaches for the maneuvers of the Russian army and the concurrent visit by the emperor of Germany to his illustrious brother, the czar. As was to be expected British and continental journalists alike, as well as others, who are wont to speak with an assumption of authority whenever that hallopedecopic problem, the "eastern question," is up, or, what amounts to the same thing with them, they fancy it is up, have donned the mantle of mystery and are whispering strange sayings as to what the outcome for Europe will be of the meeting.

When the rough-handed Bulgarian premier, Stambuloff, declined to bend to treason in the person of the late Maj. Panitz, these same journals and these same more or less reliable prophets had day dreams which were all of instant war and dire desolation. Although their gloomy forebodings have, happily, not yet been realized, they are now none the less ready to the front with portentous outcries as to what will happen as a consequence of the imperial visit. Briefly, they intimate that the czar will seek to win from the kaiser his consent that the weak Ferdinand may be superseded as ruler of Bulgaria by one who will in all things be the docile creature of Russia. As the control by her of Bulgaria, either directly or indirectly, means to Russia the practical possession of the Balkan peninsula, and before long would mean direct access to the waters of the Mediterranean sea, it will readily be seen how remote is the possibility that the interests at stake will be in any way affected by the coming together of the emperors.

Other journals and other men, in every way competent to speak intelligently on European affairs, know and say that an inch of Russian advance to the southward way mean an absolute change in the map of the continent—a change by which Austria would be the first to suffer. As Austria is the second of three great powers which make the alliance with Germany it is most unlikely that her emperor will become a party to the advancement of Russian aspirations in the direction outlined.

Labor in Politics.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Radical Federation, which influences the actions of hundreds of thousands of the people of Great Britain, has issued a most important manifesto. It is addressed more especially to the laboring classes, and calls upon the workmen to take an active and persistent interest in each and every election, whether local or national. The federation urges upon those whom it addresses to support only such candidates as will pledge themselves to do all in their power to secure for wage-earners employed on public works a working week of forty-eight hours. The manifesto also comprises a list of twenty other reforms which are commended to the people for their sympathy and franchise.

Latest From Buenos Ayres.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A special to The Times from Buenos Ayres, says a meeting of Cermanite senators and deputies held Saturday, decided finally to support President Celman. It is reported that the cabinet has decided upon a forced currency. An endeavor will be made to put a stop to gambling in gold by quoting exchange in currency. Maj. Palma, who was denounced as an informer by President Celman, is dead. It is asserted that he was poisoned.

The press at Buenos Ayres is absolutely gagged.

A Bust of John Bright.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A bust of the late John Bright, purchased by 2,000 of the work people employed in the various establishments founded by the great statesman, was yesterday formally presented to the town of Rochdale. The Earl of Ryson made the oration of the occasion.

This Sounds Familiar.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The Siecle has received a cipher dispatch from St. Petersburg stating that a dynamite mine has been discovered underneath the Rask railway station from which the czar will depart on his coming journey. Several arrests have been made.

Floods in China.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4.—Information is at hand that Pekin, Tungchow and Tientsin are submerged. Business is paralyzed and the officials are helpless. The government has ordered the immediate opening of Shun-King to foreign trade.

Emperor William on the Waters.

OSTEND, Aug. 4.—The imperial yacht Hohenzollern having on board the Emperor William of Germany, arrived off Dover at 10 o'clock yesterday evening. Salutes were exchanged with the batteries on shore.

Turkey Calls Out Her Reserves.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Turkish government has called out the reserves for the purpose of enforcing the garrisons in Armenia.

"Remember Bloody Trafalgar."

LONDON, Aug. 4.—At Hyde park yesterday the friends of the lately dismissed member of the municipal police, held a meeting which became disorderly and finally dispersed in a row. A number of socialist orators addressed the assemblage, and from time to time the crowd cried out, "Remember Bloody Trafalgar."

der of socialist orators addressed the assemblage, and from time to time the crowd cried out, "Remember Bloody Trafalgar."

RAILROAD COLLISION.

Three Men Killed and a Number of Others Injured.

BEDFORD, Ind., Aug. 4.—There was another wreck on the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad yesterday. Three men were killed and several injured. About seven miles north of this place the outbound passenger train from Chicago came in collision with the northbound passenger train from Louisville on a sharp curve killing the engineer and fireman of the outbound train, fatally injuring the engineer and fireman of the other train, and James Frank, postal clerk, and Frank Blackwell, express messenger.

Not a single passenger was injured. The two engines are totally destroyed. Two mail cars, the express cars and two parlor cars were telescoped.

The killed are: Arthur Burns, engineer, of New Albany. George Cole, fireman, of New Albany.

An unknown man, who was riding on the engine, was killed by her.

The fatally injured are: Bob Muir, engineer of the northbound train. Dave Smith, his fireman, of Lafayette.

James Tilford, postal clerk of the southbound train, head cut and internally injured. Frank Blackwell, express messenger, head crushed.

J. W. Jenkins, of Chicago, colored porter, leg and head crushed.

The seriously injured are: S. F. Bent, engineer of the mainline or way of the Monon, badly cut about the body.

Frank Shanks, freight conductor, back injured.

Ed. Muir, son of the engineer, head and face cut.

J. R. Ludie, postal clerk northbound train, bruised.

Conductor John Burns was in charge of the train going north, and was on time leaving here, but when the train struck he was two minutes late, while the south bound train was six hours late.

Conductor McDonald says that he and his engineer agreed to run on to the side track at Guthrie, three miles north of the wreck and wait for the north bound train. He went to sleep and did not wake up until they struck. All the injured were brought here and all that were able to stand travel were taken on to New Albany on a special train.

NEW MEXICAN WHITE CAPS.

After Many Outrages the Governor Threatens to Use Troops Against Them.

SANTA FE, N. M., Aug. 4.—The White Cap organization near Las Vegas, N. M., whose outrages recently were called to the attention of the secretary of the interior, have become so bold in their depredations that Governor Prince has been compelled to issue a proclamation calling upon them to disband, and declaring that if they do not do so he will order out the territorial militia, and, if necessary, call upon the United States troops.

This band of regulators style themselves Knights of Labor and have organized lodges throughout San Miguel county until they now have a membership of 1,500. They have without any legal cause destroyed hundreds of miles of fences, turned herds of cattle loose, burned thousands of tons of hay and destroyed other property while several men who have opposed them have been seriously wounded by some unseen assassin, or mysteriously disappeared.

Another unfortunate discovery for the county is that for years there have been factional fights in the Republican party, and it is now alleged that the leader of one faction is in sympathy with these outlaws, and the organization, unless soon broken up, will be used as a political machine.

SAMOA HEARD FROM.

Natives Very Much Disatisfied With England and Germany.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Advices from the Samoa islands, per steamer Zealand, are up to date of July 15. Great dissatisfaction had been expressed both by the foreign residents and the loyal natives on receipt of the news that England and Germany had further delayed the appointment of a chief justice and president of the municipal board, and that the matter had been referred to the King of Sweden.

The new government of Samoa is but little further advanced than it was a year ago. The only step which has been taken under the order of affairs created by the Berlin conference is the recent appointment of a collector of customs by the three consuls sitting as a consular board. Even this action is variously viewed. Some contending, while the consuls may make such an appointment, they have no power to enforce the payment of duties. The German trading firm, the largest commercial concern on the islands, already pays its duties under protest.

The native chiefs assert that interference to a request of the consuls they assented to the treaty after a consultation of only twenty-four hours and they complain bitterly that since then no appointment has been made.

Sunday Ball Play Not Stopped.

BUFFALO, Aug. 4.—Between 3,000 and 4,000 people assembled at the Champion League grounds yesterday to witness the ball game to be played between the St. Louis and Rochester teams. The game had not begun when the police arrived and told the managers that the game must not be played. The crowd became noisy and brawling, and several arrests were made.

In the State of Ohio.

Interesting News Prepared for the Buckeye Reader.

SOLDIERS ARRESTED AND FINED.

Peace Warrants Served Out for Twenty-Seven Members of Company D, Ohio National Guards, While in Camp at Massillon—Other Ohio Items.

MASSILLON, O., Aug. 4.—Intense excitement prevailed here Saturday night over the arrest of twenty-seven members of Company D, of Wooster, in camp with the Eighth regiment, on a peace proceedings warrant, sworn out by Robert P. Skinner, editor of The Independent, and it was feared that a conflict would be precipitated between the civil and military authorities.

The Wooster boys took offense at something in The Independent, and failed in three attempts to humiliate the editor by trying to toss him in a canvas dy. The Massillon company rescued Skinner during the third assault Saturday evening, but he was wounded over the eye by a bayonet in the melee, hence the warrant.

The Wooster boys were taken by the police force to the mayor's office, at 1:30 yesterday morning, two other companies with guns accompanying them, from fear of an attack by citizens. A settlement was effected at 4 o'clock in the morning by three of the Wooster company pleading guilty, paying $20 costs and giving $300 bonds each to keep the peace toward Mr. Skinner forever.

Remarkable Electric Disturbance.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 4.—A most remarkable electric disturbance occurred here Sunday morning. While the sun was shining brightly there came a flash of lightning and a sharp crash of thunder. Mrs. Margaret Breiford, who was sitting in the rear room of her residence on West State street, was knocked flat and was unconscious for over an hour. Several others were slightly shocked.

Dastardly Deed.

HILLSBORO, O., Aug. 4.—Two fine horses, belonging to Gen. Hughes, in Marshall township, were shot in the pasture Friday night by some person or persons unknown. That community is greatly excited over the outrage, as no cause is known for the dastardly deed.

A SALOON ON A SCOW.

Its Proprietor Need Not Pay the State Tax, Says the High Court.

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 4.—The supreme court here has filed an opinion in the case of the people vs. Bouchard, which, so far as this state is concerned, is quite far reaching. The respondent was convicted in the Bay county circuit court for selling liquors without paying the state tax under the law of 1887.

He owned a scow which he fitted up for a saloon and anchored opposite the town of Bangor and made sales. This was not denied, but the defense was set up that not being engaged in the business in any city, village or township in the state, he was not subject to the tax, and upon this it came to the supreme court, where the judgment of the lower court is reversed and the respondent discharged.

The court held that the township boundary extended to the shore line only and not being within the limits of that township of course was not in any other town.

The court calls the attention of the legislature to the necessity of a remedy for the defect.

Suffering With Hydrophobia.

WARSAW, Ind., Aug. 4.—A case of hydrophobia has developed in this city, and the mad dog has reached its height. Miss Mary Jones, 19 years of age, is the victim of the disease. She is so violent at times that it is necessary to strap her to the bed, and which she has, her parents say, that she was bitten three years ago by a vicious dog, but that to their knowledge she had never been bitten since. She grows, snarls, barks and makes other noises peculiar to dogs. A large dog, supposed to be mad, was seen on Indiana street, the principal residence street in the city, the other evening, and after frantically women and children were killed by an officer.

Brakeman Killed at a Bridge.

REDFORD, Ind., Aug. 4.—Joseph Collins, a brakeman on the Cincinnati and Richmond railway, was knocked from a car by striking a bridge near Camden, O., Saturday. His skull was fractured at the base of the brain and he received two or three skull cuts. He was taken to this city for treatment. There is a bare possibility that he may recover.

How's Your Liver?

In the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy liver. When the liver is torpid the bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, drowsiness and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficiency.

BASE BALL.

DIED AMONG STRANGERS.

An Unknown Tramp Falls Dead at LaRue, and is Buried There.

Word reached here today of the sudden death at LaRue, of an unknown tramp, which occurred about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. An unknown man applied for and received lodging at the calaboose in that place. He got up street early this morning and walked down and went into a saloon. He approached the bartender, and begged for a drink of whiskey, stating that he was a glass-blower, and that he was traveling east with the hope of reaching Cleveland, where he expected to work.

When he asked for the liquor he stated that he was not feeling well and that he had been sick during the night. The drink was given him and he left, going to the railway water tank. Here he climbed to the top of a lumber pile, into the shade, and laid down. But a few minutes afterward parties in the neighborhood saw him fall to the ground, and hurried to the place. On reaching the spot the man was picked up, but was dead, having expired in a few minutes.

The dead man is apparently between 30 and 35 years of age. He had been about LaRue for two or three days, and on Sunday applied for medicine to Dr. Sawyer, and stated that he had not eaten anything for several days, and when the doctor offered to secure him some food the man stated that he could not eat. The description of the man as given is 5 feet, 8 inches in height, of light complexion, rather dark hair and sandy moustache, and he weighed perhaps 150 pounds; and on his right arm was tattooed the letters "R.R." and on the left arm the figure of a ballet girl. On his person was found a scrap of paper bearing the names, "J. W. Powers and G. D. Pitts, Marion."

The remains were taken in charge by the LaRue authorities and were buried this afternoon.

Since the above was written the Star has received a telephone message stating that the deceased man's name is R. Redrick and that his home was at New London, Ohio.

YOUTH AND EXPERIENCE.

Love Ignores the Disparity of Ages—Martin Miller and Miss Emma Ballentine Married.

Martin Miller, the well-known citizen and real estate owner, whose wife was divorced from him October 28th, 1887, was again married to Miss Emma Ballentine, a young lady residing in North Marion. It is understood that the ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the Free Baptist church, by Rev. W. P. Hale, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The only remarkable circumstances of this union is the disparity in the ages of the contracting parties, the groom being 67 years, while the bride is but 19. The friends of the couple will wish them all the delights of a full honeymoon, and that they may find the roseate hue of life, unmingled with any of the thorns.

The Baby Choked a Carriage.

A colored picnic excursion boarded a train on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad on Sunday. The chattering, perspiring, gayly dressed picnickers crowded the seats and aisles of the smoker and first class cars and the overflow even flooded the parlor car and the platform. The clamor and babel incident to such affairs rose above the clatter of car wheels and made ordinary railroad conversation impossible. But at a stoppage at one of the little railway stations there was a lull. A poorly clad old negro of solemn visage came up to a car window and said to an elderly colored passenger:

"Sis Sue, I's 'stonished to see you hyar gwine off picnickin' Sunday when yo' cousin's baby's bein' buried dis hyar very day."

"Law, you don't tell me! Well, I did hear de baby was dead, but den I didn't look for such a sudden funeral. What sill'm, anyhow?"

BREAD SUPERSTITIONS.

In days gone by bread was used as a charm against witches.

It is said that if a loaf parts in the hand while being cut it bodes dissensions in the family—the separation of husband and wife.

It has long been a widespread belief that the whereabouts of a drowned body may be ascertained by floating a loaf of bread down a stream, when it will stop over the spot where the body lies.

Amongst beliefs current among our own sailors is the notion that it is unlucky to turn a loaf upside down after helping oneself from it, the idea being that for every loaf so turned a ship will be wrecked.—British Baker and Confectioner.

Many housewives mark their loaves of bread with a cross before putting them in the oven. One explanation given for this custom is that "it prevents the bread turning out heavy." Some, again, maintain that the sign of the cross "keeps the bread from growing moldy."

QUEER AND CURIOUS.

One of the curiosities found by the census enumerators in Madison county, Ga., is a boy 9 years old who has never been given a name by his parents.

A colored dentist at Macon, Ga., is said to use his fingers only in extracting teeth. They are strong as forceps, and he claims he can pull teeth faster and with less pain than any dentist using instruments.

A curiosity revealed at Holly Hill, near Daytona, Fla., was the birthing out of a couple of chicks by a pair of guinea fow in a store window among a lot of guinea fow in every particular, as was also the rose branch to which they were singularly attracted.

They have a curious custom at the burial of unmarried women at Brazil. The coffin, hearse and the liver of the driver must be bright scarlet, the four white horses driving the hearse must be covered with scarlet nets and scarlet plumes must deck the horses' heads.

A New Auburn, Me., man recently took a novel way of advertising. He managed to catch a large snake and placed him in his store window among a lot of guinea fow in every particular, as was also the rose branch to which they were singularly attracted.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS.

In Spain the legislative power is exercised by the king in conjunction with a supreme council of state and a council of ministers.

In Guatemala the legislative power is held by a national assembly, and the executive is administered by the president, assisted by a ministry and the heads of six departments.

In Portugal the legislative authority is given to the two houses, upper and lower, of the cortes gerais. The executive rests with the sovereign and a cabinet of seven responsible ministers.

In Austria and Hungary have their own respective parliaments, ministers and government. They have a common army, navy and diplomacy, and a controlling body, known as the delegations.

Greece has its executive power vested in the king and his responsible ministers, heads of eight departments. The legislative power is given to a single chamber of representatives, called the boule.

In Costa Rica the legislative department consists of a congress, comprising a senate and house of representatives; the executive of the president and a council of ministers, the heads of five departments.

The Mexican legislative power resides in a congress, consisting of a senate and a house of representatives. The executive authority is intrusted to the president and a ministry, the heads of five departments.

The absolute power of the British empire is held by a parliament, consisting of two houses, the house of lords and the house of commons. The sovereign is at the head of parliament, and can alone summon parliament.

The legislative authority of the Netherlands is vested wholly in a parliament, called the states general. The executive is with the sovereign and a council of eight ministers, the heads of different departments.

The German empire has its supreme government vested in the king of Prussia (emperor of Germany), the bundesrat, and the reichstag. The former represents the individual states, the latter the German nation.

The French legislative power is controlled by an assembly of two houses—chamber of deputies and senate. The executive authority is in the hands of the chief magistrate, called the president of the republic.

The legislative power of San Domingo is vested in a national congress, consisting of two houses, a senate and the chamber of deputies. The executive is intrusted to the president and a ministry, the heads of five departments.

The legislative power of Belgium is in the king, the chamber of representatives and the senate. No act of the king has effect unless signed by one of his ministers, who are thus made responsible for all acts of the government.

The legislative authority of the Argentine Republic is vested in a national congress, consisting of a senate and a house of deputies. The executive power is entirely in the hands of the president, who is held responsible for the acts of the department.

LITERARY LIGHTS.

M. Zola permits an interested world to know that he takes a cold bath every morning.

During Count Tolstoi's illness an average of forty visitors called each day to inquire after him.

William Black, the novelist, is very fond of athletic sports, and he is also an expert angler. He has a charming home and family, and his house is noted for its entertainments.

J. W. Buell, of St. Louis, is spoken of as the most successful author of the age. A few years ago he was working on a St. Louis newspaper for a small salary, and now enjoys an income of $60,000 a year.

Disraeli, the author of "Lothair" and other works, was a student of human nature, and he always had an eye out for good breeding. He used to say the test of gentility was to see women eat oranges and grapes.

Mr. Benjamin P. Shillaber (Mrs. Partington) has passed his 70th birthday, but, though somewhat feeble, he is in full possession of his faculties, and still has that keen sense of the ludicrous that enters so largely in all his writings.

Guy de Maupassant's new novel, "Our Heart," is the recent literary sensation in France. M. de Maupassant wrote for seven years before he allowed himself to publish a line, but he is now publishing at the rate of two novels a year.

George Bancroft, the historian, rarely appears on the streets, as in former years. He is much feebler than he was last summer, and when he goes out he rides in a carriage, graving infirmity and preventing an indulgence in his favorite recreation of horseback riding.

Joaquin Miller has permanently retired to his mountain home, three miles back of Oakland, Cal., and refuses to have any intercourse with the world. He has built three quaint cottages, in one of which he dwells, the second shelters his mother and in the third his wife and children live.

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM.

The town clock at Sarina, Ont., stopped recently, and its custodian, in seeking the cause, found that the hands had been so firmly tied down with strands of twine and grass by a pair of English sparrows that had selected the angle formed by the hands as a site for a nest.

A veritable monstrum was found in an out-shed of a house in Galena, Ill., in the shape of a kitten having four distinct heads, eight front feet and four hind feet, all attached to one perfectly formed body. The kitten was apparently about a week old and was one of a litter of eight.

At Neuenhof, Prussia, the lightning struck the cable end of a barn where a pair of storks had built their nest for years. The flames soon caught the nest in which the brood was screaming, but the mother stork, refusing to leave, spread her wings over the young ones and was burnt alive.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

CURIOUS AND INSTRUCTIVE FACTS OF WIDESPREAD INTEREST.

A Botanist's Directions for the Pressing, Preserving and Mounting of Specimens of Plants for Herbariums—How to Do It Neatly.

The assistant botanist at the Ohio experiment station, in a bulletin issued from the station, gives some timely directions for the pressing and preserving of plants for herbariums.

For pressing the plants a supply of specimen sheets, which are simply sheets of paper folded once in which the specimens are placed, and driers are needed. The usual size of the specimen sheets is 10 inches, and the driers, of soft carpet paper, must be of the same dimensions. The press may consist of two boards a little larger and wider than the sheets and driers. One is put down as a foundation on which to place the plants. On this are placed two driers; then comes a sheet, between the folds of which are arrayed the plants, then two more driers, another specimen sheet, and so on until all the plants have been placed in the press. On top of this pile put the other board, and on this a weight sufficient to press but not crush the plants. Good sized flat stones serve well as a weight. In arranging the press make the pile as even as possible, and change the driers at least once a day. Do not remove the plants from the press until they are thoroughly dry.

Before mounting specimens for the herbarium they must be pressed to prevent insect attack on them. Dissolve an ounce of corrosive sublimate in a quart of commercial alcohol. Either place this solution in a shallow dish, in which the plants may be immersed, or in a deeper vessel, and apply the solution to the plant with a broad soft brush, and be careful not to get the poison on the leaves. Place the saturated plants between fresh driers, put them back in the press and by a light weight on them. When dry they are ready to be mounted.

A HERBARIUM SPECIMEN. The herbarium sheets should be of smooth, stiff, firm paper, and each sheet should be 10 inches in length, and the size adopted in the United States. A mixture of equal parts gum tragacanth and gum arabic in solution, with a few drops of carbolic acid added to keep it from moulding, is the best glue.

There are two methods of mounting plants. One is to glue the specimen to the sheet, and the other is to fasten it to the paper by means of gummed strips. The specimen shown in the cut is mounted with the latter method. White cotton plaster cut in narrow strips is a neat thing to use. The label should be put on the lower right hand corner of the herbarium sheet—3½ x 2½ inches is a good size. It should contain the generic and specific names of the plant. Under this is usually written the common name; in one corner the date and locality, and in the other the name of the collector.

The Production of the Gannet.

We can show the production of the gannet by cutting little pieces of wood of different sizes, which are thrown on to a table, the sounds produced vary according to the size of the different pieces.

There are two young artists of Bristol named Johnson who are twins, and between whom the similarity is far more remarkable than in the case of the two Dromedaries. According to an English journal not only are they of the same height and weight, having the same colored hair, eyes and complexion, identical physical measurements, and feeding, walking, running, laughing, crying, singing and speaking alike, but they are of the same occupation, hold the same position and have the same religious persuasion and likes and dislikes. More singular still, they have the same number of children, who are of the same sexes, three girls and three boys each.

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE.

Hints About Summer and Seaside Tea and Good Breeding in Traveling.

Russian tea, poured upon finely chopped ice, served in tall, thin glasses, each upon a small glass plate, is acceptable and dainty for a summer or seaside "tea."

With it should be served long strips of rusk, or a delicate sandwich made of chopped and highly seasoned hard boiled eggs. As in the case of hot tea, a lump or two of sugar should be placed upon each saucer or plate. Loaf or lump sugar alone should be used, says Good Housekeeping, and adds the following suggestions as to the etiquette of the occasion.

No formal acceptance or regret is necessary, but each guest will leave a card, if present, in the place designated, and in case of absence the courtesy must be recognized by a card, which may be sent by a friend or by mail on the day itself. In case of tea are given the card need not of course be sent more than once, if it is impossible to be present at any one of them. The recognition of the invitation by a card is expected from people in mourning.

The costume appropriate for a guest is a handsome walking or visiting dress, while the hostess may wear either a dressy house toilet, or one of the exquisite tea gowns, the fashion for which we have borrowed with the custom.

When On the Summer Trip.

Nowhere is the distinction between ill bred and cultured people of either sex more manifest than on a journey. As a rule travelers are selfish. But consider the effect on others, especially for ladies, a mark of civilization, its absence indicates the barbarian. The experienced and well bred traveler is calm and self possessed, while the novice is in a constant worry and turmoil. When going on a journey examine the time tables and acquaint yourself thoroughly with the routes and all the connections. This will give composure and prevent vexatious blunders.

When a lady and her escort are seeking seats together it is courteous in a gentleman to give up his double seat and find a single one elsewhere.

The etiquette of an escort to a lady are manifold, and the lady should lighten these by her urbane and cheerful behavior. To weary him with constant complaints of the heat, the dust and the flies; to mislay some of her parcels every few minutes, forcing him to rise and seek; what is presently found in her own pocket; to ask constantly, "Where are we now?" "What time is it?" "When will we reach our destination?" to worry about her baggage, to find constant fault with what is beyond his control, are all faults in which ladies sometimes indulge, but they indicate selfishness and a lack of perfect courtesy, punctuality and a cheerful acceptance of the outward situation, even when uncomfortable, mark the lady in traveling.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

Excessive Coffee Drinking a Cause of Stomachic Mysteria and Insomnia.

Dr. Mendel, of Berlin, has lately published the results of a clinical study of the effect of excessive use of coffee among women of the working population in and about Essen. His observations are summed up by Science as follows: He found large numbers of women who consumed over a pound of coffee in a week, and some drank considerably more, besides beer and wine. The leading symptoms were profound depression of spirits and frequent headaches, with insomnia. A strong dose of coffee would relieve this for a time, then it would return. The muscles would become weak and trembling, and the hands would tremble when at rest. An increasing aversion to labor and any steady work was noticeable. The heart's action was rapid and irregular, and palpitations and a heavy feeling in the precordial region were present. Dyspepsia of an extreme nervous type was also present. Acute neuritis was common in these cases. These symptoms constantly grew worse, and are only relieved by large quantities of coffee, generally of the infusion. In some cases the tincture was used. The victims suffer so seriously that they dare not abandon it for fear of death. They are taken only temporary relief following. The locomotion of the hands and feet cold, and an expression of dread and agony settles over the countenance, only relieved by using strong doses of coffee. In all these cases acute inflammations are likely to appear at any time. An injury of any part of the body is the starting point for inflammations of an erysipelatous character. Melancholy and hysteria are present in all cases. Coffee habitues are more common among the neurotics and are more conceited, because the effects of excessive doses of coffee are obscure and largely unknown. Many opium and alcoholic cases have an early history of excessive use of coffee, and are always more degenerate and difficult to treat.

The Useful Lemon.

The number of curative properties attributed in recent years to the lemon is large. Here are some of them, as an eminent physician is said to have enumerated.

Lemonade made from the juice of the lemon is one of the best and safest drinks for any person, whether in health or not. It is suitable for all stomach diseases, excellent in sickness in cases of jaundice, gravel, liver complaint, inflammation of the bowels and fevers. It is a specific against worms and skin complaints. Lemon juice is the best antiseptic remedy known. It not only cures the disease, but prevents it. Sailors make daily use of it for this purpose.

We would advise every one to rub their gums with lemon juice to keep them in a healthy condition. The hands and nails are also kept clean, white, soft and supple by the daily use of lemon instead of soap. It also prevents chilblains. Lemon is used in intermittent fevers, mixed with sugar, hot, black coffee, and stout. Neuralgia, if it is said, may be cured by rubbing the part affected with a cut lemon. It is valuable also to cut warts. It will remove dandruff by rubbing the roots of the hair with it. It will alleviate and finally cure coughs and colds, and heal diseased lungs if taken hot on going to bed.

Two Wonderful Twins.

There are two young artists of Bristol named Johnson who are twins, and between whom the similarity is far more remarkable than in the case of the two Dromedaries. According to an English journal not only are they of the same height and weight, having the same colored hair, eyes and complexion, identical physical measurements, and feeding, walking, running, laughing, crying, singing and speaking alike, but they are of the same occupation, hold the same position and have the same religious persuasion and likes and dislikes. More singular still, they have the same number of children, who are of the same sexes, three girls and three boys each.

Big Sales of Ice Cream.

It takes a good deal to cool off New York on a hot day. On the Fourth one ice cream manufacturer sold 50,000 quarts of cream. It is said that the profit on this was $7,500. A popular pharmacy sold twenty-one gallons of lemonade alone from its soda fountain one hot day recently. Cold coffee is highly recommended as a warm-weather drink. It is stimulating, excellent for the stomach and very palatable.—New York Times.

Ducks Should Have Shade.

The duck is more thickly covered with feathers than the hen, and is therefore more subject to the effects of heat on very warm days. They are sometimes affected by sunstroke and die in a few minutes. Ducks have but few diseases, but they will thrive only under proper conditions. They must have some kind of shade in summer to protect them from the direct rays of the sun.—Christian at Work.

Professor Samuel Cushman, apiarist of the Rhode Island agricultural experiment station, maintains as the result of personal observation that bees do no damage to growing or fair fruit. The juice of fruit is in fact injurious to them, and they do not attack sound fruit but only bruised fruit or that which has been previously injured by other insects.

With the present developments of electrical science it does not take long to start an elevated railway and get it into running operation. A Savings Bank Story.

There is an impression abroad that much money is lying unclaimed in the savings banks of the state. But money is a thing that is not lost sight of to any extent either in savings or other banks. There may be periods of dormancy in the claims made for it. Often it is left by design. An instance of that kind occurred at the National Savings bank of Albany, which was twenty-one years old on Saturday. The first savings bank pass book, No. 1, issued by it for $1,000, was presented. It was money deposited in 1849 for his then infant son by a father, and now at his majority the son brought his book for settlement, and has principal and accumulated interest compounded for twenty-one years at his own personal command, and yet the bank officers had not seen the book since it was first given out, although they knew that the father was dead, and that the son was living and growing up an estimable young man worthy of his parentage. Had the son died, his heirs would have claimed the deposit and interest by legal right as theirs.—Albany Argus.

Facts About Birch.

The birch is capable of supporting a much greater degree of cold than any other tree. In the Old World its northern limit is 71 degs. upon the west and 63 degs. upon the east coast; in America its northern limit is 64 degs. upon the west and 58 degs. upon the east. In Germany the highest elevation at which it is found is 3,300 feet above the level of the sea; in Sweden at 3,900 feet and in Lapland at 1,722 feet. It is worthy of remark that this tree decreases in size not only as it advances toward the north, but also as it proceeds southward beyond the limits of its native range. It attains its highest perfection and greatest height in Germany and southern Sweden. The birch is not particular in its choice of soil or situation, and will grow almost equally well in sandy, rocky, dry or damp soil.—London Garden.

Where Bathing is Unfashionable.

It is no longer fashionable to bathe in the surf at Newport. Mme. Hant Ton discovered that it was possible to meet her neighbor's maid in the water, and then, too, she came in contact with the summer tourists, whom she regards as very undesirable to know, so she concluded that surf bathing must no longer be recognized in "our set." The people in bathing are usually those who do not care for the opinion of the fashionable world or those from the hotels. Hotel life is not interesting. Unlike some of the other summer places, life does not center in the great caravansaries; and so unless one has an extensive acquaintance among the Newport people it is extremely stupid to be at a hotel.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Champion Rattlesnake Story.

Last week a negro killed a monster rattlesnake six miles this side of Clover Valley, on the Union Pacific extension from Milford. The only weapon which the darky had was in the form of earth clods, but he succeeded in crushing out the life of the rattler, and upon examination found the snake to measure ten feet in length, with ninety-six rattles and a button on the lateral extremity. This would give an almost phenomenal age to the snake, making it about 100 years old. The skin and rattles have been taken north to Salt Lake, where they will be shipped to the east.—Beaver (Utah) Utonian.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of "One Hundred Doses" which can truly be said, "One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla in its medicinal merits. Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Peculiarly its "good name" at home—there is now more sold in Lowell, where than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its natural record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

He Declares That They Are Full of the Most Destructive Influences, and Warns All Men and Women to Beware of the Snare of Vacation Time.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 3.—Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest awhile.—Mark vi. 31.

Here Christ advises his apostles to take a vacation. They have been living an excited as well as a useful life, and he advises that they get out into the country. I am glad that for longer or shorter time multitudes of our people will have summer vacation. The railway trains are being laden with passengers and baggage on their way to the mountains and the seashore. Multitudes of our citizens are packing their trunks for a restorative absence.

THE HEAT OF THE CITY.

The city heats are pursuing the people with torch and fear of sunstroke. The long silent halls of sumptuous hotels are all abuzz with excited arrivals. The crystalline surface of Winthrop's lake is shattered with the stroke of a steamship, laden with excursionists. The anthers of Adirondack deer rattle under the shot of city sportsmen. The trout make fatal snaps at the hook of adroit sportsmen and toss their spotted brilliance into the game basket. Already the baton of the orchestral leader taps the music stand on the hotel green and American life puts on festival array, and the rumbling of the tenpin alley, and the crack of the ivory balls on the green baize billiard tables, and the jolting of the bar room goblets, and the explosive uncorking of champagne bottles, and the whirl and the rustle of the ball room dance, and the clattering hoofs of the race courses attest that the season for the great American watering places is fairly inaugurated. Music—flute and drum and cornet and piston and clapping cymbals—will wake the echoes of the mountains.

Glad I am that fagged out American life, for the most part, will have an opportunity to rest, and that nerves wrecked and destroyed will find a Bethesda. I believe in watering places. Let not the commercial firm begrudge the clerk, or the employer the journeyman, or the patient the physician, or the church its pastor, a season of inoccupation. Luther used to sport with his children; Edmund Burke used to caress his favorite horse; Thomas Chalmers, in the dark hours of the church's disruption, played kite for recreation—as I was told by his own daughter—and the busy Christ said to the busy apostles, "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest awhile." And I have observed that they who do not know how to rest do not know how to work.

TEMPORAL AND ETERNAL DESTRUCTION.

But I have to declare this truth today, that some of our fashionable watering places are the temporal and eternal destruction of "a multitude that no man can number," and amid the congratulations of this season and the prospect of the departure of many of you for the country I must utter a note of warning—plain, earnest and unmistakable.

The first temptation that is apt to hover in this direction is to leave your piety all at home. You will send the dog and cat and canary bird to be well cared for somewhere else, but the temptation will be to leave your religion in the room, with the blinds down and the door bolted, and then you will come back in the autumn to find that it is starved and suffocated, lying stretched on the rug stark dead. There is no surplus of piety at the watering places. I never knew any one to grow very rapidly in grace at the fashionable summer resort. It is generally the case that the Sabbath is more of a carousal than any other day, and there are Sunday walks and Sunday rides, and Sunday excursions.

Elders and deacons and ministers of religion who are entirely consistent at home, sometimes when the Sabbath dawns on them at Niagara Falls or the White mountains take the day to themselves. If they go to the church it is apt to be a sacred parade, and the discourse, instead of being a plain talk about the soul, is apt to be what is called a crack sermon—that is, some discourse picked out of the effusions of the year as the one most adapted to excite admiration; and in those churches, from the way the ladies hold their fans, you know that they are not so much impressed with the heat as with the picturesque of half disclosed features. Four puny souls stand in the organ loft and squall a tune that nobody knows, and worshippers with two thousand dollars' worth of diamonds on the right hand drop a cent into the poor box, and then the benediction is pronounced and the farce is ended.

THE WORLD, THE FLESH AND THE DEVIL.

The air is bewitched with "the world, the flesh and the devil." There are Christians who in three or four weeks in such a place have had such terrible reverts made in their Christian robe that they had to keep darning it until Christmas to get it mended. The health of a great many people makes an annual visit to some mineral spring an absolute necessity; but take your Bible along with you, and take an hour for secret prayer every day, though you be surrounded by guffaw and saturnalia. Keep holy the Sabbath though they denounce you as a bigoted Puritan. Stand off from these institutions which propose to imitate on this side the water-the iniquities of olden time. Baden-Baden. Let your moral and your immortal health keep pace with your physical recuperation, and remember that all the waters of Hathor and sulphur and chalybeate springs cannot do you so much good as the mineral, healing, perennial flood that breaks forth from the "Rock of Ages." This may be your last summer. If so, make it a fit vestibule of heaven.

Another temptation around nearly all our watering places is the horse racing business. We all admire the horse. There needs to be a redistribution of coronets among the brute creation. For ages the lion has been called the king of beasts. I knock off its coronet and put the crown upon the horse, in every way nobler, whether in shape or spirit or sagacity or intelligence or affection or usefulness. He is semi-human, and knows how to reason on a small scale. The centaur of olden times, part horse and part man, seems to be a suggestion of the fact that the horse is something more than a beast.

JOE'S APOSTROPHE TO THE HORSE.

Jobs sets forth his strength, his beauty, his majesty, the panting of his nostrils, the pawing of his hoof and his enthusiasm for the battle. What Rosa Bonheur did for the cattle, and what Landseer did for the dog, Job, with mightier pencil, does for the horse. Eighty-eight times does the Bible speak of him. He comes into every kingly procession, and into every great occasion, and into every triumph. It is very evident that Job and David and Isaiah and Ezekiel and Jeremiah and John were very fond of the horse. He came into much of their imagery. A red horse—that meant war; a black horse—that meant famine; a pale horse—that meant death; a white horse—that meant victory.

As the Bible makes a favorite of the horse, the patriarch, and the prophet, and the evangelist, and the apostle stroking his sleek hide, and putting his rounded neck, and tenderly lifting his exquisitely formed hoof, and listening with a thrill to the champ of his bit, so all great natures in all ages have spoken of him in encomiastic terms. Virgil in his Georgics almost seems to plagiarize from the description of Job. The Duke of Wellington would not allow any one irreverently to touch his old war horse Copenhagen, on whom he had ridden fifteen hours without dismounting at Waterloo; and when old Copenhagen died his master ordered a military salute fired over his grave. John Howard showed that he did not exhaust all his sympathy in pitying the human race, for when sick he writes home, "Has my old chaise horse become sick or spoiled?"

But we do not think that the speed of the horse should be cultured at the expense of human degradation. Horse races in olden times were under the ban of Christian people, and in our day the same institution has come up under fictitious names, and it is called a "summer meeting," almost suggestive of positive religious exercises, and it is called an "agricultural fair," suggestive of everything that is improving in the art of farming. But under these deceptive titles are the same cheating and the same betting, the same drunkenness, and the same vagabondage, and the same abominations that were to be found under the old horse racing system.

RACING SPOILS MORALS.

I never knew a man yet who could give himself to the pleasures of the turf for a long reach of time and not be battered in morals. They hook up their spanking team, and put on their sporting cap, and light their cigar, and take the reins, and dash down the road to perdition. The great day at Saratoga and Long Branch and Cape May and nearly all the other watering places is the day of the races. The hotels are thronged, nearly every kind of equipage is taken up at almost fabulous price, and there are many respectable people mingling with jockeys and gamblers and libertines and foni mouthed men and flashy women. The bartender stirs up the brandy smash. The bets run high. The greenhorns, supposing all is fair, put in their money soon enough to lose it. Three weeks before the race takes place the struggle is decided, and the men in the secret know on which steed to bet their money. The two men on the horses riding around long before arranged who shall beat.

Leaning from the stand or from the carriage are men and women so absorbed in the struggle of bone and muscle and mettle that they make a career harvest for the pickpockets, who carry off the pocketbooks and portemonnaies. Men looking on see only two horses with two riders flying around the ring, but there is many a man on that stand whose honor and domestic happiness and fortune—white mane, white foot, white flank—are in the ring, racing with inebriety, and with fraud, and with profanity, and with ruin—black neck, black foot, black flank. Neck and neck they go in that moral Epsom.

HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH IT.

Ah, my friends, have nothing to do with horse racing dissipations this summer. Long ago the English government got through looking to the turf for the dragon and light cavalry horse. They found the turf depreciates the stock, and it is yet worse for men. Thomas Hughes, the member of parliament and the author, knows all the world over, hearing that a new turf enterprise was being started in this country, wrote a letter in which he said, "Heaven help you, then; for of all the cankers of our old civilization there is nothing in this country approaching in unblushing meanness, in rascality holding its head high, to this belauded institution of the British turf."

Another famous sportsman writes: "How many fine domains have been shared among these hosts of rapacious sharks during the last 200 years, and unless the system be altered how many more are doomed to fall into the same gulf?" The Duke of Hamilton, through his horse racing proclivities, in three years got through his entire fortune of $350,000, and I will say that some of you are being undermined by it. With the bull fights of Spain and the bear baitings of the pit may the Lord God annihilate the infamous and accursed horse racing of England and America!

I go further, and speak of another temptation that hovers over the watering places, and this is the temptation to sacrifice physical strength. The modern Bethesda was meant to recuperate the physical health, and yet how many come from the watering places, their health absolutely destroyed! New York and Brooklyn idiots boasting of having imbibed twenty glasses of congress water before breakfast. Families accustomed to going to bed at 10 o'clock at night gossiping until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. Dyspeptics, usually very cautious about their health, mingling ice creams and lemons and lobster salads and cocoa nuts until the gastric juices lift up all their voices of lamentation and protest. Delicate women and brainless young men chasing themselves into vertigo and catalepsy. Thousands of men and women coming back from our watering places in the autumn with the foundations laid for ailments that will last them all their life long. You know as well as I do that this is the simple truth.

GOOD-BY, GOOD HEALTH.

In the summer you say to your good health: "Good-bye; I am going to have a good time for a little while. I will be very glad to see you again in the autumn." Then in the autumn, when you are hard at work in your office or shop or counting room, Good Health will come and say, "Good-bye; I am going." You say, "Where are you going?" "Oh," says Good Health, "I am going to take a vacation!" It is a poor rule that will not work both ways, and your good health will leave you choleric and splenetic and exhausted. You coqueted with your good health in the summer time, and your good health is coquetting with you in the winter time. A fragment of Paul's charge to the jailer would be an appropriate inscription for the hotel register in every watering place, "Do thyself no harm."

Another temptation hovering around the watering place is to the formation of hasty and life long alliances. The watering places are responsible for more of the domestic infelicities of this country than all the other things combined. Society is so artificial there that no sure judgment of character can be formed. Those who form companionships amid such circumstances go into a lottery where there are twenty blanks to one prize. In the severe tug of life you want more than glitter and splash. Life is not a ball room where the music decides the step, and bow and prance and graceful swing of long trial can make up for strong common sense. You may as well go among the gayly painted yachts of a summer regatta to find war vessels as to go among the light spray of the summer watering place to find character that can stand the test of the great struggle of human life. Ah, in the battle of life you want a stronger weapon than a lace fan or a croquet mallet! The load of life is so heavy that in order to draw it you want a team stronger than one made up of a masculine grasshopper and a feminine butterfly.

A WORD ABOUT THE DUDE.

If there is any man in the community that excites my contempt, and that excites the contempt of every man and woman, it is the soft handed, soft headed fop who, perfumed until the air is actually sick, spends his summer in taking killing attitudes, and waving sentimental adieus, and talking infinitesimal nothings, and finding his heaven in the set of a lavender kid glove; boots as tight as an inquisition; two hours of consummate skill exhibited in the tie of a flaming cravat; his conversation made up of "Ah's" and "Oh's" and "He-he's." It would take five hundred of them stewed down to make a teaspoonful of calf's foot jelly. There is only one counterpoint to such a man as that, and that is the frothy young woman at the watering place—her conversation made up of French moonshining; what she has on her head only equalled by what she has on her back; useless ever since she was born, and to be useless until she is dead. And what they will do with her in the next world I do not know, except to set her upon the banks of the River of Life for all eternity to look sweet!

ARM YOURSELVES.

My friends, whether you tarry at home—which will be quite as safe and perhaps quite as comfortable—or go into the country, arm yourselves against temptation. The grace of God is the only safe shelter, whether in town or country. There are watering places accessible to all of us. You cannot open a book of the Bible without finding out some such watering place. Fountains open for sin and uncleanness; wells of salvation; streams from Lebanon; a flood struck out of the rock by Moses; mountains in the wilderness discovered by Hagar; water to drink and water to bathe in; the river of God, which is full of water; water of which if a man drink he shall never thirst; wells of water in the Valley of Baca; living fountains of water; a pure river of water as clear as crystal from under the throne of God.

These are watering places accessible to all of us. We do not have a laborious packing up before we start—only the throwing away of our transgressions. No expensive hotel bills to pay; it is "without money and without price." No long and dirty travel before we get there; it is only one step away. In California in five minutes I walked around and saw ten fountains, all bubbling up, and they were all different. And in five minutes I can go through this Bible parterre and find you fifty bright, sparkling fountains bubbling up into eternal life. A chemist will go to one of these which would make them blush if they knew that you knew what the book was.

SEEN RAINFUL LITERATURE.

"Oh," they say, "you must have intellectual recreation." Yes. There is no need that you take along into a watering place "Hamilton's Metaphysics," or some thunderous discourse on the eternal decrees, or "Faraday's Philosophy." There are many easy books that are good. You might as well say, "I propose now to give a little rest to my digestive organs, and instead of eating heavy meat and vegetables I will for a little while take lighter food—a little strychnine and a few grains of ratbane." Literary poison in August is as bad as literary poison in December. Mark that. Do not let the frogs and the lice of a corrupt printing press jump and crawl into your Saratoga trunk or White mountain valise.

Would it not be an awful thing for you to be struck with lightning some day when you had in your hand one of these paper covered romances—the hero a Parisian rogue, the heroine an unprincipled flirt—chapters in the book that you would not read to your children at the rate of $100 a line! Throw out that stuff from your summer baggage. Are there not good books that are easy to read—books of congenial history, books of pure fun, books of poetry ringing with merry canto, books of fine engravings, books that will rest the mind as well as purify the heart, and elevate the whole life! My hearers, there will not be an hour between this and the day of your death when you can afford to read a book lacking in moral principle.

Another temptation hovering all around our watering places is the intoxicating beverage. I am told that it is becoming more and more fashionable for women to drink. I care not how well a woman may dress, if she has taken enough of wine to flush her cheeks and put glassiness on her eyes she is intoxicated. She may be handed into a $2,500 carriage, and have diamonds enough to confound the Tiffanys—she is intoxicated. She may be a graduate of a great institute, and the daughter of some man in danger of being nominated for the presidency—she is drunk. You may have a larger vocabulary than I have, and you may say in regard to her that she is "convivial," or she is "merry," or she is "festive," or she is "exhilarated," but you cannot with all your garlands of verbiage cover up the plain fact that it is an old fashioned case of drunk.

Now the watering places are full of temptations to men and women to tipple. At the close of the tenpin or billiard game they tipple. At the close of the cotillion they tipple. Seated on the piazza cooling themselves off they tipple. The tinged glasses come around with bright straws and they tipple. First they take "light wines," as they call them; but "light wines" are heavy enough to debauch the appetite. There is not a very long road between champagne at five dollars per bottle and whisky at five cents a glass.

Satan has three or four grades down which he takes men to destruction. One man he takes up, and through one spree pitches him into eternal darkness. That is a rare case. Very seldom, indeed, can you find a man who will be such a fool as that.

When a man goes down to destruction Satan brings him to a plane. It is almost a level. The depression is so slight that you can hardly see it. The man does not actually know that he is on the down grade, and it tips only a little toward darkness—just a little. And the first mile it is claret, and the second mile it is sherry, and the third mile it is punch, and the fourth mile it is ale, and the fifth mile it is porter, and the sixth mile it is brandy, and then it gets steeper and steeper, and the man gets frightened and says, "Oh, let me get off!" "No," says the conductor, "this is an express train, and it does not stop until it gets to the Grand Central Depot of Smashedness." Ah, "look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth its color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

summer watering places and take the water and analyze it, and tell you that it contains so much of iron, and so much of soda, and so much of lime, and so much of magnesia. I come to this Gospel well, this living fountain, and analyze the water, and I find that its ingredients are peace, pardon, forgiveness, hope, comfort, life, heaven. "Ho, every one that thirsteth come ye" to this watering place!

Crowd around this Bethesda today! Oh, you sick, you lame, you troubled, you dying—crowd around this Bethesda! Step in it! Oh, step in it! The angel of the covenant today stirs the water. Why do you not step in it! Some of you are too weak to take a step in that direction. Then we take you up in the arms of our closing prayer and plunge you clean under the wave, hoping that the cure may be as sudden and as radical as with Captain Naaman, who, blotched and carbuncled, stepped into the Jordan, and after the seventh dive came up, his skin rosy and complexioned as the flesh of a little child.

Large numbers of eggs are bought by foreign agents in the governments of Kharkov, Kursk, Vorenezh, Toher-nigov, Orlov, Poltava, and in the settlement of the Cossacks on the Don river, for transportation into Germany and Austria. The purchases are made so energetically by the active agents that the prices of eggs in those parts of Russia have trebled.

English ladies are adopting the fashion of putting their maids who wait at table in livery. The skirts are plain of these livery gowns and of the heraldic color of the house. All the plaids are thrown behind. Then the waistcoat and jacket are trimmed with livery bands, buttons and crests or monograms in metal. A high, stiff white collar, white cuffs and a tiny white cap like a topknot complete this livery.

Turkey's customs officers are peculiarly keen in searching for travelers' books, and the censor, if he does not confiscate them, tears out or obliterates any remarks they may contain disparaging to Turkey or Turkish institutions. Even the "Divine Comedy" is prohibited in the sultan's dominions, because Dante has spoken in unflattering terms of Mahomet.

In Bakumot, government of Eka-terinoslav, a curious accident occurred. A rock was blasted in the alabaster factory of Novikov & Co. Fully two hours after a charge had been exploded, while the workmen were engaged clearing up the debris produced by the explosion, a piece of rock about fifteen yards in diameter broke down and killed all the laborers that were working underneath.

A citizen of Selma, Cal., who had two lazy boys on his hands, induced them to plant a vineyard and cultivate it with their own labor for three years, with a promise that he would pay them a bonus of $1 for every pound of raisins that should be raised in that length of time. The boys went to work with a zeal that nearly took the old gentleman's breath away, and from present indications this year's crop will cost him $2,000.

The English love of dancing still puzzles lazy Orientals. At a recent ball at Rangoon two native grooms were watching the festivities from a veranda and one of the observers asked his companion why the couples walked about after each dance. The other groom described the reason in stable phraseology: "The shahis run the mens and missies round to make them hot and then walk them round to cool them down."

DR. TALMAGE'S FIRST SERMON.

The Great Preacher Tells How He Appeared When He Begun His Life Work. Ah, how well I remember the first Sunday in my first church!

The congregation gathered early. The brown stone church was a beautiful structure within and without. An adjacent quarry had furnished the material, and the architect and builder, who were men of taste, had not been interfered with. A few creeping vines had been planted at the front and side, and a white rose bush stood at the door, flinging its fragrance across the yard.

Many had gone in and taken their seats, but others had stayed at the door to watch the coming of the new minister and his bride. She is gone now, and it is no flattery to write that she was fair to look upon, delicate in structure of body, eyes large and blue, hair in which was folded the shadows of midnight, erect carriage, but quite small. She was such a one as you could pick up and carry over a stream with one arm. She had a sweet voice and had stood several years in the choir of the city churches, and had withal a magic of presence that had turned all whom she had ever met into warm personal admirers. Her hand trembled on her husband's arm as that day they went up the steps of the meeting house, gazed at intently by young and old.

The pastor looked paler even than was his wont. His voice quivered in reading the hymn, and he looked confused in making the publications. That day a mother had brought her child for baptism, and for the first time he officiated in that ceremony. Had hard work to remember the words, and knew not what to do next. When he came to preach, in his excitement he could not find his sermon. It had fallen back of the sofa. Looked up and down and forward and backward. Fished it out at last, just in time to come up, flushed and hot, to read the text. Made a very feeble attempt at preaching. But all were ready to hear his words. The young sympathized with him, for he was young, and the old looked on him with a sort of paternal indulgence. At the few words in which he commended himself and his to their sympathy and care they broke forth into weeping. And at the foot of the pulpit at the close of the service the people gathered, poor and rich, to offer their right hand.—T. De Witi Talmage in Ladies' Home Journal.

Only a Mistake.

Little 3-year-old Tom Gibson, of California, ought to make a good lawyer if he keeps on. One day not long ago his father said to him:

"Tom, get my slippers. They are under the bed."

Pretty soon Tom came back empty handed.

"Fader," said he, "you told a big lie."

"How is that?" said his father.

"Well," replied Tom, "I looked under the bed, and no slippers there. No slippers there, fader."

"That wasn't a lie, my son," replied his father. "That was a mistake."

The slippers were found and the incident was forgotten until a few days afterward. Tom came running into the house with his lips betraying visible evidence that he had been eating.

"Tom," said his mother, "what have you been eating?"

"Nothing, mother," replied Tom.

"Why, Tom," said his mother, "there are crumbs all over your mouth. Don't you know you have told me a story?"

"No," replied Tom promptly, "that was a mistake."—New York World.

A Knight of the Garter Pin.

James H. Drake possesses a unique scarf pin. It is nothing more or less than a Knight of the Garter pin, of which there are none in this country with this exception, and but thirty-two in all England. The pattern is a garter of blue enamel, on which are the well known words in gilt lettering, surrounded by a cross whose points are set with diamonds. Some years ago Mr. Drake entertained a party of English capitalists in the northwest, among whom was the Duke of Sutherland. When they took their departure, greatly pleased with their visit, the duke drew the pin from his cravat and placed it in Mr. Drake's. Many times has he been stopped by Englishmen in this country who recognized one of the emblems of the order, and who desired to know how it came into his possession. Mr. Drake might readily pass for a duke, but he is as proud of his nationality as he is of the pin and the circumstances of its presentation.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Cause of Sea Sickness.

The causes and philosophy of sea sickness have always been a great puzzle; but the most generally received theory at present is that the trouble is due to the inequality of pressure in the blood vessels. In a craft tossing on the waves the blood is made to flow first this way and then that, naturally producing disturbance. As for remedies, nothing has been discovered that is more effective than the traditional piece of salt pork on the end of a string.—New York Telegram.

—Bucyrus Forum: Through the efforts of interested parties, the chances are that W. Scott Welsh will be paroled from the penitentiary and again engage in employment here. A petition has been signed by fifty of our leading citizens and will be presented to the board of managers, together with other documents bearing upon the case. If his friends are successful he will return to Bucyrus about September 9. The spirit of the movement in his behalf was excited by several things, principal among them being the illness of his aged mother, the prostration of his wife and need of his family. He has been punished severely and under the circumstances it would be cruel and inhuman to oppose his release.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY.

A Horse Tramps Out Its Own Entrails in a Runaway Accident.

An unusually horrifying runaway accident occurred at the home of John Osburn, about three miles west of this city, Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Will Osburn hitched up his father's team to drive his sister, Mrs. Wiley, and her little child, to her home, she having been visiting at the Osburn house. On leaving the barnyard the horses became frightened and started to run, becoming unmanageable. They had gone but a short distance when one of the animals ran over a snag or stick of some kind, which caught in its belly, inflicting a wound from which the entrails protruded. This apparently incensed the horse, and it tore on in its mad flight, tramping upon its own bowels, until it became exhausted.

Young Osburn and Mrs. Wiley's child were thrown from the buggy, but the lady remained in the vehicle until the horses tore loose from it, but all fortunately escaped serious injury.

The buggy was considerably mashed up, and the horse so badly injured that it was found necessary to kill it, and it was immediately bled to death.

Wreck at Prospect.

A freight train collided with a passenger engine on a siding at Prospect at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The engines of both trains were badly smashed up. The passenger engine's tank was knocked in and had to be hauled into Columbus. Two coaches were attached to the passenger engine and both were loaded with passengers. No one was hurt but all were badly scared. The air brakes failing to work was the cause of the wreck. The passenger engine was in charge of Engineer Enright.

UNDER THE CAR WHEELS.

Will Straub Loses His Life While Trying to Board a Freight at Caledonia.

Another horrifying accident occurred at Caledonia Saturday evening, in which Will Straub, a 17-year-old youth, lost his life. Young Straub, accompanied by Henry Rigel, a companion of about the same age, were stealing a ride east on Big Four freight 42. It is not known that the boys rode into Caledonia on 42, however they attempted to board that train, which had stopped at the above place to take water. It was pulling out at the rate of about ten miles an hour when the boys attempted to get on at the depot platform. Rigel got up all right but Straub was less fortunate. He tried to get up between the cars, but fell back to the platform, about a foot and a half from the rails. He then rolled off and was caught by the wheels, the sight horrifying those who saw him fall and causing them to turn away from the scene.

The body of the unfortunate boy was dragged a distance of about thirty feet before it was released by the machinery. The upper part of the body and head almost miraculously escaped mutilation, but the lower limbs were terribly crushed, one leg being taken off at the knee and the other being mutilated up to and including the thigh.

The body was picked up and taken to an undertaking establishment and surgical assistance summoned, but it was evident that there was no possible chance of recovery. The accident occurred about 8 o'clock, and the injured boy survived about an hour afterward.

In the meantime he recovered consciousness sufficient time to tell his name and age, that his home was in Marion and the name of his father, who is an employee of the Huber works, and resides at the corner of South and Greenwood streets. He called for a drink after his effort to talk, which was given him and he died.

Young Rigel, who had gone on through on the freight, returned here on Erie train 3 at 11 o'clock, and informed the father of the dead boy what had occurred. Undertaker Frank Schaffner, accompanied by Rigel, drove over to Caledonia at an early hour Sunday morning and brought the remains to this city. The funeral took place this morning at St. Mary's Catholic church and was largely attended. Young Straub was an apprentice at the Steam Shovel Co.'s works, and a large number of his shopmates attended his funeral in a body.

"ESTELLA" IDENTIFIED.

The Mystery Surrounding the Lima Suicide Being Cleared.

The young lady who committed suicide at Lima last week, has at last been correctly identified. It now transpires that her correct name was Belle Carter, and that she was the daughter of John Carter, living one mile south of LaRue. Friday afternoon Mr. Carter was telegraphed to from Lima, and he answered that the young woman was his daughter.

Saturday a brother went to Lima and the remains were placed in his charge and were interred at Lima.

The girl's mother died a few years ago, and since that time she lived with her grandmother, at Richmond, Ohio. Her grandmother died shortly afterward, and the girl went to Lima to live with her father, who resided there a short time last winter. It is stated by the Lima papers that she then drifted to Marion, and was here when she was engaged with White's museum. The cause of the suicide, however, still remains a mystery, there having nothing developed to shed any light on the cause of the rash act.

THE CAMP MEETING.

Preparations for the Coming Meeting Moving Along Nicely.

The camp ground of the Seventh-Day Adventists, which is located east of the city, is being rapidly put in order for the coming meeting.

Already about thirty tents are up and nearly fifty people on the grounds, who are attending a course in missionary instruction. This number, it is expected, will be greatly increased during the week.

The large pavilion in which the public preaching services will be held is to be located in the front of the camp. Back of this the family tents will be pitched and tastefully laid out in streets and alleys. It is expected by Friday of this week that everything will be in readiness for the meeting; that the pavilion, bookstand, dining tent, reception tent and all the family tents will have been pitched so that the services for the public may begin Friday evening.

Able speakers are expected from abroad to conduct the preaching services.

MRS. P. W. HOLVERSTOTT.

Wife of a Prominent Claridon Township Farmer, Dies of Softening of the Brain.

Mrs. Adelia Holverstott, wife of P. W. Holverstott, residing five miles east of Marion, on the Caledonia road, died Sunday, aged 55 years. Death resulted from softening of the brain complicated with some other troubles. Mrs. Holverstott having been in feeble health for more than a year.

Mrs. Holverstott was born in Delaware county in 1835 and was the daughter of Rev. Marcus and Sarah Killbourn. She was married to Mr. Holverstott in 1854 and five children blessed their union, three of whom survive.

VAUGHAN & ALLEN,

A Site for the Fair

Has been the interesting theme discussed by thousands in the past few months. I wish to interest you in a discussion. "The Site for the Fair," meaning, of course, the Ladies of Marion, is the Delightful Display of New Styles in

LADIES' FOOTWEAR

Now on view at our store. I can fit any foot, furnish any style of Shoe and guarantee all work to be of the best. I want to

MATCH THE CHICAGO FEAT

Of winning the World's Fair by a greater feat—winning the custom of the Fair of Marion. If I can win I can hold it by quality and prices.
